January 24	Harry James Orchestra conducted by Fred Radke Under the direction of Harry James' lead trumpet virtuoso, the band has continued its tradition of fine rhythmic playing and mellow arrangements, playing in the major venues of the U.S and Europe, including Disneyland and Las Vegas. This concert will almost certainly be a sellout. Season ticket holders are guaranteed a seat.
January 31	Soo-Yeon Ham Winner of the Chopin Prize at the 2009 Cleveland international Piano Competition, she has performed internationally, including with the Shanghai Philharmonic Orchestra, Seoul Symphony Orchestra, St. Petersburg Radio Broadcast Orchestra, and Royal Irish Academy of Music Symphony Orchestra.
February 14	A Far Cry Chamber Orchestra This high energy Boston based chamber orchestra brings a joie-de-vivre to their performance. Their repertoire ranges from early and classical music to folk and jazz. Hailed by the Boston Globe as "one of Boston's most promising classical music groups," A Far Cry is making waves, experimenting with how music is performed and heard.
February 21	Sarina Zhang, 14 year old cello/piano prodigy Winner of the 2005 International Russian Young Musician Music Competition, featured on NPR's "From the Top" in 2004 and 2007, and taking first place in many international piano and cello youth competitions, this young lady is currently studying piano, cello and music composition at Juilliard. She strives to move her audience with the simple truth of classical music.
February 28	Dueling Divas Sopranos Birgit Fioravante and Wendy Reynolds, along with pianist Heather Coltman, are well-known to Florida audiences through their associations with Florida Grand Opera, Palm Beach Opera, Florida Philharmonic, and more. Active as soloists, chamber musicians and recitalists, they have performed to critical acclaim locally and internationally. Now they have written and brought to life a theatrical extravaganza directed by Trent Blanton. Dueling Divas combines some excellent singing of familiar operatic pieces with parody, satire, and just plain slapstick. With their big egos, big wigs, gorgeous voices, and ridiculous characters, they have created a show that every audience will enjoy.
